:: OUR PRODUCT ::

COCOA NIBS

DESCRIPTION:

Cacao nibs, also known as cocoa nibs, are crumbled bits of dried cacao beans, which grow on the cacao tree. Cacao nib producers dry and crack the beans into small pieces. Cacao nibs are part of the same bean used in chocolate candy production.

:: OUR PRODUCT ::

COCOA MASS

DESCRIPTION:

Chocolate liquor, also known as cocoa liquor and cocoa mass, is a smooth liquid form of chocolate. Like the cocoa beans (nibs) from which it is extracted, it contains both cocoa solids and cocoa butter in roughly equal proportions.

:: OUR PRODUCT ::

COCOA POWDER

DESCRIPTION:

Cocoa Powder is an unsweetened powder produced by grinding the seeds of the fruit of a tropical evergreen tree called the cacao, or cocoa tree. These seeds, or beans, are first fermented and then dried and roasted. After roasting, the beans have their hulls removed and are then processed to extract their fat, which is known as cocoa butter. The leftover solids are further ground into what eventually is sold as a cocoa powder.

:: OUR PRODUCT ::

COCOA BUTTER

DESCRIPTION:

Cocoa butter, also called theobroma oil or theobroma cocoa, is a pale-yellow, pure edible vegetable fat extracted from cocoa beans. Lotus ensures that the finest quality beans are used to make cocoa butter such that the mild chocolate flavor and aroma is enhanced. Lotus provides pure prime pressed cocoa butter obtained from the selected cocoa beans. Further Lotus also makes pure prime pressed deodorized cocoa butter.
